

LAGRANGE FAIR IN ITS GLORY

Opened Yesterday Morning at 11 O'Clock

ADDRESS OF COL SWANSON

At Its Conclusion All Whistles of the Manufactories Blow, and the Carnival Was On—City Fairly Crowded with Visitors.

LaGrange, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—The LaGrange street fair and carnival is now on with all its noise and moving crowds. At 11 o'clock sharp this morning the mayor, T. J. Harwell, and city fathers, President Seay and judges, with many other of LaGrange's most prominent citizens, all in carriages, formed a long cortege to Colonel R. G. Swanson as he was conducted to the grand stand to deliver the address of welcome. President Seay in a few chosen words introduced Colonel Swanson as an ideal citizen. After thanking the president for his complimentary words he said:

"The industrial little city of LaGrange turns aside from her duties to give you an unqualified welcome. Her gates are open. She bids you enter. You need no protection. You are in the hands of your friends. This is not meant in a political sense (that might be unfortunate for you). She is too modest to sing her own praises. Still she has a repressed good opinion of herself not so ancient as Thebes, not yet so splendid as Babylon, she is looked upon with the same veneration as the Athenian would the city of the violet crown. Whence her legend and tradition? Long ago in the forest primeval, the red man trained his birch canoe on the bosom of the Chattahoochee, down from the hills of Habersham and down through the valleys of Hall he came. The wild duck flew from brake and fenland and the wild deer fled with a nameless terror at the dip of the human paddle. On he came until he reached the fertile soil of Troup county. Here he rested in his arched bow, wooed the dusky maiden of the Creek and the Muscogee and ran riot in the wild excess of nomadic life. But a man was coming from the east with the ax and the ox cart and the ring of his mallet in the forest carried confusion to the heart of the savage. The same blood flowed in his veins that warmed the pulse of those that followed Raleigh and Oglethorpe. He was the Anglo-Saxon. The same men who at the close of the nineteenth century is supreme. Anglo-Saxon triumph over the Lenoir and the Seminoles. He is the only man in the history of the world who has never retraced his footsteps in an attempt at colonization. He is carrying civilization around the globe. In genius and invention he leads the world and in a hundred years his hand will be universal. He is the man who felled these forests, built his rude cabin under the ample of the Indian's wigwam and inaugurated the reign of the white man. He is a matter of considerable uncertainty whether or not Columbus will become a member of the Southeastern baseball league. Mr. Arthur Smith, of Atlanta, was here a day or two ago, and had a conference with President Flournoy, of the Columbus Railroad company. The Southern has a double daily service all along, but the placing of a parlor car has been one of their latest projects. Mr. Flournoy said that the company had a splendid baseball park, which the league could use. His company will not back any team, however. "There is a wealth of cotton stored away in the warehouses of Columbus. In round numbers there is on hand 30,000 bales, being held for 10 cents and higher, and even at present prices this cotton is worth over one million dollars. The Eagle and Phenix mills have just bought a three months' supply—nearly five thousand bales—of cotton. Columbus, which has stored it away in the Georgia warehouses.

WASHINGTON WHITE PRIMARY
Nominations for Mayor and Six Councilmen.
Washington, D. C., December 12.—(Special.)—For the first time Washington's municipal nominations were held under the white primary today, when a mayor and six councilmen were nominated for the ensuing two years. Until yesterday no great deal of interest was taken in the primary, but today, when a mayor and six councilmen were nominated for the ensuing two years. ALABAMA LEGISLATORS ENJOYED THEIR HOLIDAYS

Montgomery, Ala., December 12.—(Special.)—Today was a holiday with the Alabama legislators. They took advantage of it in visiting points of interest in the city, which they have not done before on account of the pressing duties imposed upon them by the legislature. It can be truthfully said of this legislature that while they have been somewhat extravagant in school appropriations, they have been very economical in their expenditures for other purposes. They have been lavish of money for building roads and bridges, schoolhouses, streets and sewers, courthouses and jails.

Daily Service Between Columbus,

Columbus, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the Queen City Dry Goods Company was filed yesterday afternoon in the federal clerk's office by D. R. R. Child and Co. and R. C. Chambers, of Columbus, and Inman, Smith & Co., of Atlanta. These petitioners place their claims at about $500. They claim that the Queen City Dry Goods Company admitted on December 10th, in writing, that they were unable to pay their debts.

On next Sunday the Central railway inaugurates a double service on its Buena Vista and Ellaville branch. Columbus will then have the best railroad service in her history—a double daily service on every road entering the city with the exception of the narrow gauge line to Greenville, S. C. The Central's double daily service to Savannah and Birmingham, as well as the one on the Mobile and Grand central lines, are now daily, and only recently a double daily service to Roanoke, Ala., was put into effect. The Georgia and Alabama railway very recently put on a double daily service. The Southern has a double daily service all along, but the placing of a parlor car has been one of their latest projects. Mr. Flournoy said that the company had a splendid baseball park, which the league could use. His company will not back any team, however.

Austin, Tex., December 12.—(Special.)—The forthcoming session of the Texas legislature promises to be not only very lengthy, but many matters of great importance are being held in waiting for its consideration. It is an uncommon thing for upward of 1,000 bills to be introduced in the two branches. While many of these measures never see the light of day they serve to sidetrack many more important matters.

Griffin, Ga., December 12.—(Special.)—Yesterday a negro by the name of John Phillips was killed on the farm of Dr. W. P. Phillips, while driving a mule over his head, as he galloped after the horse. The mule became frightened and threw him off, and in falling the reins became twisted and held him tight while the mule ran a half mile before it was stopped. The negro's head was almost in a jelly, but as life was not extinct his injuries were attended to, but he was too far gone to recover and died from the effects of his own foolishness.

BIG VICTORY AT NIGHT SESSION FOR DEPOT BILL

ing a parliamentary question, or attempting to do so, solely for the purpose of delay, he was interrupted by Mr. Hardin, "Ain't you glad," queried Mr.
Hardin, "that you can find rules in that little book to obstruct the work of the house?"

"Yes," responded Mr. Hall, "I am glad, very often."

After arguing against time to defeat the will of the majority, Mr. Hall turned round and voted to sustain the decision of the chair from which he had appealed.

Fight at Morning Session.
Immediately after the consideration of the Soldiers' Home bill at the morning session, the steering committee directed that the depot bill should be taken up at once and placed on its passage with a thirty-minute debate.

Representative Copeland, of Walker, moved to adjourn, and on this motion the yeas and nays were called. Mr. Felder asked permission to explain his vote on the motion to adjourn.

Mr. Hall, who was on his feet, responded to the question, "Ain't you glad that you can find rules in that little book to obstruct the work of the house?"

"Yes," responded Mr. Hall, "I am often very glad."

The speaker finally ruled out all the arguments of the members of the house
who were on the floor, and the house
was forced to take his seat.

The result of the roll call showed that the ruling of the chair had been sustained over Mr. Hall's point by a vote of 106 to 2.

Speaker Makes a Statement.
Speaker Little at this point asked for the attention of the house in order that he might make a statement.

"The chair shares with other members of this house the general disappointment
at the failure of the house to get down
to work."

"The chair would be heartily glad if the house would overrule his decision of yesterday and let the house get down
to work."

"Does the chair hold," interrupted Mr.
Hardwick, of Washington, "that the obligation is on the members of the house to conform to the rules of the house?"

"No," replied the speaker, "the chair
made no such statement."

Mr. Hall, of Bibb, moved to adjourn, and on this motion the yeas and nays were called. The motion to adjourn was sustained.

Mr. Toomer, of Ware, more in conformity with the suggestion of the chair, moved to reconsider the action of the house in constraining constitutional rule 12 so as to suspend the rules.

On the succeeding call of the roll Mr.
Felder asked permission to explain his vote on the motion to adjourn. There was objection and Mr. Felder appealed from
the decision of the speaker, who ruled that such an appeal had already been made.

Mr. Felder, who was on his feet, responded to the question, "Ain't you glad

who were on the floor, and the house

Another Appeal Taken.
On the succeeding call of the roll Mr.
Felder asked permission to explain his
vote on the motion to adjourn. There was
objection and Mr. Felder appealed from
the decision of the speaker, who ruled

made.

SENATE TO INSIST ON FULL SALARY OF W. & A. ATTORNEY

Consideration of the appropriation bill
by the senate committee was concluded last night and the committee will only recommend one change in the bill as it came from the house.

The house made a reduction in the salary of the special attorney of the Western and Atlantic railroad of just one half,
which brought the amount down from $2,000 to $1,500 a year. The senate committee made a searching investigation of the entire matter and last night the committee decided unanimously to recommend to the senate that the salary be restored to $2,000. If the senate carries the recommendation of the committee,
the salary of the special attorney will be restored to $2,000.

A change was made in the salary of the state librarian which cut the amount down from $1,500 to $1,000, but last night
the committee reconsidered and put the amount back to $1,500.

A strong fight was made last night to cut the appropriation of the State Normal college at Athens, but the effort failed. The failure to reduce the appropriation to the State Normal college was due to the magnificent fight for the institution by Senator Holder. Senator Holder led the fight made by the friends of the institution and the fact that the appropriation was not changed by the committee is due largely to the way in which Senator Holder worked for the college.

The other appropriation for the university proper went through the committee
without a fight or remarks of any kind.

Senator Bush, who had expressed an intention of fighting this appropriation, did not reach the committee meeting last night until after the item in the bill had been passed and he did not ask to have it gone into again.

In one or two minor instances the wording of the act was changed by the committee, but in no way were any of the amounts appropriated by the house altered except as stated above.

The session of the senate yesterday morning was short and few matters were passed upon. The first matter acted upon was a motion to reconsider action on a house bill passed the day before which altered the time that administrators of estates must give notice to be relieved.

The bill in question changed the time from three months to one month, and many of the senators who voted for it stated that after giving the matter more thought they were convinced that it was not wise law and wanted it reconsidered.
This was done by a vote of 11 to 7,
and the bill, therefore, falls to become a law.

A bill by Mr. Wright, of Floyd, which was passed in the house met its death in the senate. The bill is one that provides for the care of dependent children.
The bill provides that the grand jurors should be the right representatives of the people to set apart a portion of the county poorhouse for children of this kind. The bill met with a great deal of opposition in the senate and failed to pass by a vote of 28 to 8.

The senate will meet this morning at the usual hour, 10 o'clock.

WOMEN SHOULD BE HOME BY MIDNIGHT, SAYS A JUDGE

New York, December 12.—Justice Andrews, in the supreme court today, handed down a decision in which he holds that a woman should be at home by midnight. The question arose on an application by Florence Abell, a dressmaker, to enjoin J. A. Omdark, her landlord, from closing the front door of the house, and not immediately admitting her when she rang the bell. Miss Abell says she leased two rooms from the defendant to carry on her dressmaking and sleep in at 25 a month. She was to be allowed to have her shop open from
a. m. to 10 p. m., but was to be admitted afterwards at any reasonable time. She complained that on November 10th and 11th she was locked out, and on the second occasion had to go to a hotel. Omdark said it was necessary to keep the house locked at night, as the tenants had a great amount of valuables there. Judge Andrews said he could not compel the defendant to give the plaintiff a key to the outer door, as by the terms of her lease she was only entitled to access at reasonable hours. He granted her a preliminary injunction requiring the defendant to permit her to enter her premises at all reasonable hours and promptly open the door for her up to 12 o'clock at night.

household goods, reached here to look after Word. The Waycross house had not heard from Word in some days, so sent Brew-

it was decided that he keep him confined there tonight. If Word is as much out

BOULTON DROPPED DEAD AT THE SIGHT OF HIS WIFE

Vancouver, B. C., December 12.—Confronted by the wife whom he had deserted for another woman, William Boulton, son of a fine English family, dropped dead and now occupies a marble slab at the morgue. Boulton, to conceal his whereabouts from the family he had deserted, adopted the name of William T.
Wilson. When the man was found dead
there was at first no one to identify him, except the woman who was known here
as his wife. Today, however, several witnesses swore that his name was William Boulton.

Another dramatic feature of the case is that the husband of the woman who was known here as Mrs. Wilson accompanied Mrs. Boulton on her journey across the ocean and across the continent. The deserted wife and the deserted husband made common cause and together joined in the search for the runaway.

the scene and confronted her guilty husband. What passed between them in that last interview will never be known un-few moments later Boulton sank to the ground a corpse. The autopsy surgeon declared, after a close examination of the body and its organs, that death had resulted from fright, and from no other cause.

ELIMINATE INCOMPETENTS; KEEP GRAMMAR IN SCHOOLS

BY JUDGE ROBERT L. RODGERS.

Grammar is the didimentary and elementary principles of a language. A baby begins its grammar study when it first hears a word and begins to imitate it, and develops into articulation when it lispes the name "mother," or "ma," or "mama," and so on. When the child begins the teaching of grammar with the child, just when it begins to speak the word "mother," or "ma," or "mama."

Grammar is defined in this lexicon, as follows:

Where did such a simple notion come from? The answer is, from the fact that these elementary principles are the basis of all correct usage of language in education.

Would it not be unlawful or unwise to undertake such a scheme as to have the state provide for the education of the children of the state? The constitution of the state provides for the education of the children of the state in common schools. It is the duty of the state to provide for the education of the children of the state in common schools for the education of the children of the state.

L. 'The science of language; the theory of human speech; the study of forms of speech and their relations to one another'.

2. "The art of speaking or writing with propriety or correctness, according to established usage; the normal or right use of language."

Can any person scrutinize and analyze these definitions, and then say that grammar should not be a study for the children of all schools? From my view, of the

The subject is important, hence my prolonged discussion of it. The idea of English education without English grammar is simply nonsense. We must all say we will "eliminate" the

To eliminate grammar from schools made in the true interest of education or is it a mere idea of some one who does not himself comprehend the basic principles of the English language, and thinks that a commercial understanding of common words is sufficient for ordinary business, or the lingo of trade?

Grammar, in its proper significance and appropriate application, is the essential study for the proper writing and speaking of the language. It embraces several distinctive parts or divisions, but all correlative or reflexive in their particular connections in the correct expression of language. We have the division of orthography, which deals with the "correctness" of some very smart man might as well that if more attention is paid to study of figures and numbers, the study of arithmetic will not be necessary. He instinctively learns correct usage hearing them spoken or read, and rules never count for much. For some expert accountant might as propose the advisability of doing as much with "the study" of mathematics. We might as well "eliminate" the part of equation in the solution of algebra problems to find an unknown quantity. We might as well "eliminate" the study of lines and angles of geometry and expect to learn to demonstrate that and their combination with consonants and this also must teach the syllabification and accent of words. Can we afford to eliminate this division of grammar from our schools? Perhaps Mr. Pappenheimer or Mr. Douglas may get on in life without such stuff, but the children need the teaching of correct spelling. In

At a certain school once the little boys and girls had their "primers" in spelling, and with the pictures to illustrate words. They made great progress in spelling. A little boy was called on in the class to spell "ox." He remembered the picture, and the two letters underneath and he briskly spelled "o-x" "ox." Another was given the word "box," and he remembered the picture of a box, and promptly spelled "b-o-x" - "box." Another who had not been taught in true and correct orthography was given the word "socks," garments for covering for the feet. There was no picture of socks, no "object lesson" to catch the sound or sight, and the little 6-year-old took the original word and

The poor little urchin did not understand orthography, and of course felt badly at the idea of missing a word in spelling, but he rallied again and with a poser to the teacher partly asked: "Well, if 'o-o-x' don't spell 'ox,' what do it spell?"

Did that child need the study of grammar? Perhaps that teacher thought as one of our school boards, "study of grammar is not necessary," and "the rules never count for much." Oh! the shades of Webster. Let us get back to the old blue-back spelling book.

As the second division of grammar we have etymology, or the etymon, that branch of philological science which treats of the history of words and grammatical forms, tracing out their origin, primitive significance and changes of form and meaning." 1. That part of grammar which relates to the changes in the forms of words in a language, or inflection." Can we afford to "eliminate" this part of grammar from study in our schools? Take the word "eliminate": what is its etymology. Can we afford to do what this word verily signifies, as to the study of grammar: A third division of grammar is prosody: spectrally, Roswell

ON THE WHEEL

NEW YORK, DECEMBER 12.—With over

fourteen hundred miles ridden in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, which ended on Saturday, eight teams were still represented on the track at midnight tonight, the beginning of the fourth day of the contest. The men have not been able to keep up the hurrican pace jumped into at the outset. For the first two days they kept ahead of the record, but now they are far behind; the 1,000 miles and one lap reeled off by the leaders being twelve miles and seven laps behind the record for 1899.

Hippolyte Accouturier, the Frenchman, and his partner, Rudolph Muller, the Italian, pulled out of the race about 9 o'clock this morning. Accouturier was completely exhausted, and was unable to continue the awful journey and despite the seers and revellers of his partner, Muller, he would ride no more. Muller was heart-broken and wept like a child.

Turville and Aronson have not been able to go back on the track since they were carried out of a serious tumble the riders were mixed up in shortly after 9 o'clock tonight. The former, the doctor said, may be able to resume after a little rest, but it is doubtful. Should he not be it will remove two dangerous teams, who are now only three laps behind the leaders, Elkes and McFarland, and Pierce and McCracken.

Elkes and McFarland and Pierce and McCracken are now in the lead, each team having 1,404 miles and one lap to go. One lap back came Sinar and Gougeon. Two laps back of the team are Turville and Gimm, Waller and Stinson, and Babcock and Aronson. Six laps back are the team of Sinar and Gougeon.

From midnight of last night until the mixup there was no special incident attending the riding except the withdrawal of Muller and Accouturier.

Committee Recommends Vigorous Campaign in Birmingham District in Behalf of Organized Labor—New President Outlines Plans.

Birmingham, Ala., December 12.—(Special.)—At today's session of the United Mine Workers of America, Alabama district No. 20, the election of a vice president and a secretary-treasurer was taken up. George Smitherman, colored, was elected vice president, and J. L. Clemo to the second. Mr. Clemo has held the office of secretary-treasurer for a number of years, and he had no difficulty in again getting the office.

Ed Flynn of Pratt City, was chosen president of the district at yesterday afternoon's session. The members of the executive board were chosen this afternoon, and this completed the roster of officers and practically concluded the work of the convention.

The report of the committee on officers' reports as adopted recommends the inauguration of a vigorous campaign in the interest of the United Mine Workers in the counties of Walker, Marion and Winston; it recommends that the price to be paid for mining coal in Walker county be left to the miners in that county, on account of the peculiar local conditions prevailing there; that only one convention be held each year, and that be in June, so as to be prepared to meet the winter of the coal season.

The committee declares no election in the case of secretary, second and third vice presidents and of the district officers; it recommends that the price to be paid for mining coal in Walker county be left to the miners in that county, on account of the peculiar local conditions prevailing there; that only one convention be held each year, and that be in June, so as to be prepared to meet the winter of the coal season.

Chicago, December 12.—The election committee of American Century Wheelmen announces the following result of election of national officers of that organization just concluded:

President, Charles W. Heaton, of Cleveland.

First vice president, C. E. Bonnell, of Chicago.

Member board of control, A. L. Kats, of Chicago.

The committee declares no election in the case of secretary, second and third vice presidents and of the district officers; it recommends that the price to be paid for mining coal in Walker county be left to the miners in that county, on account of the peculiar local conditions prevailing there; that only one convention be held each year, and that be in June, so as to be prepared to meet the winter of the coal season.

ATHLETIC CLUB

Members of the Atlanta Athletic Club

are manifesting a keen interest in the location of the old ring, and the institution, which occurs tonight. It is a kind of indoor tournament and serves to demonstrate which is the best of a number of athletes. It consists of five separate events, and a certain percentage of the contestants drop out after each trial.

The trials will be preceded by jump, dumb bell exercises, and a preliminary trial in hand wrestling.

Tonight nearly all members of the athletic club will enter the first contest. The eight best will enter the second, the six will enter the third, four will engage in the fourth and two will enter the fifth.

The five events will be as follows:

Running high jump from the springboard.

Putting the shot, alternating with the right and left hand.

Three standing forward jumps.

Running race of 24 yards.

Wrestling match, Greco-Roman style, two points down.

Any member of the club is eligible for the pentathlon.

Prizes for the exhibition may be secured from any member of the club or at the clubhouse on Edgewood avenue. The attendance will undoubtedly be large.

DEATH OF SQUIRE W. P. FORD.

Ex-Federal Soldier Who Protected Confederate Property.

Chattanooga, Tenn., December 12.—(Special.)—Squire W. P. Ford, one of the prominent citizens and old time residents of this city, died at his home near this city today in the sixty-eighth year of his age. Mr. Ford came to this city in 1862, having been sent here by the United States government to take charge of the army transportation department at that time. After the war he settled in this city and took up farming.

Mr. Ford was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and he was one of the few soldiers who remained in the South after the war. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and he was one of the few soldiers who remained in the South after the war.

BRUNSWICK NEEDS LARGE SUM.

Captain Gillette Says $150,000 Is the Sum Needed for Improvement.

Washington, December 12.—(Special.)—Captain Gillette's recommendation for Brunswick harbor improvement is $150,000. He thinks that this sum is enough to insure water after the harbor has been built, and that it is a reasonable sum for the improvement.

There is a disposition on the part of some of those interested in the harbor to doubt whether this will prove satisfactory, as they think it is not enough to build the dredge, and that something should be done for the bar in the meantime. The Gillette report is not in final form, but this is understood to contain the recommendations stated above.

MAN CASE IS AGAIN IN COURT

How of Switchman Is Suing Central for $35,000.

THREE TRIALS ALREADY HAD
The Jury Awarded Mrs. Newman $7,500 Damages.

Just Time Case Was Before Jury It Was Dismissed Upon Motion of Plaintiff's Attorneys.

That Mrs. Rebecca Newman is content that she has a good case for damages against the Central railroad for the death of her husband, is evidenced from the fact that she has again taken the matter into court for the consideration of a jury.

McCormack Brothers, counsel for Mrs. Newman, yesterday filed suit in the superior court against the road for $35,000 damages. Several days ago the same case was dismissed in the first division of the city court upon motion of the attorney for the plaintiff.

Previous to that time the case had been before a jury on two occasions. During the first trial before Judge H. H. Field, it was decided that the case should be dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff had no interest in the case, and on the second trial some months ago, the jury awarded Mrs. Newman $7,500 as damages.

McCormack, Brewster & Howell, representing the railroad company, made application for a new trial. It was granted, and the case came up for the third time about a week ago. After several days of trial, the attorneys for the railroad moved that a verdict be directed in favor of their client, and argument was had upon this point an entire day.

The next morning counsel for Mrs. Newman asked to have the case dismissed, which was done by Judge Field. This is, therefore, the third time the case has been before the jury.

According to the petition filed by Mrs. Newman, her husband was employed by the railroad company as a switchman and was killed while on duty.

She said he was attending to the duties of his position on March 11, 1900, when he was killed. It was alleged that the company was negligent in not coupling two cars that were running together by a chain instead of a hook.

Mrs. Newman said the two cars were only six feet apart and that when her husband was between them to take out the coupling-pin, the engine started suddenly causing the two cars to come together. She alleged he was caught between them and crushed to death.

According to the widow's petition, Newman was twenty-nine years old when he was killed and was earning $5 each week as an employee of the road.

REV. KINSON SHAW'S WELCOME.
The Methodist Ladies of the City To Attend Substantial Greetings.

The Constitution has been asked to send the following signed communication to the ladies conference held in this city.

Rev. Dr. Hendrix appointed Rev. Stimson to lead the ladies in the spiritual welfare of our city.

It is a most proper and that the ladies interested in the spiritual welfare of our city should be welcomed by the ladies of this city.

Our presiding elder, Rev. R. J. Bigham, reports that as many ladies and gentlemen will meet on Friday, December 15th, at 7:30 o'clock at No. 200 North street and each one bring or send something to fill his pantry.

Let us outline dinner party and let us also help him by showing our willingness to co-operate with him in all Christian work among us. Let us renew our love for the spiritual welfare of our city.

Let us all share in the crown and hasten the coming of our crucified Lord. May we all be united in prayer to make the year 1901 the grandest year in history that Atlanta has ever known.

The present is great. Ladies, do not forget to allow other engagements to interfere. Come and bring a contribution, just what you want to bring. Have a pleasant evening and give Brother Shaw a genuine and hearty home coming.

POLICE MATINEE OPEN SHOTS.

The Scalping of Yisa Dokes.

"So Bubba Whitehead has scalped Yisa Dokes," Recorder Broyles said yesterday when opening up his matinee. "Darktown has had all sorts of shows, and it's a matter of proper that it should include in a little of the Buffalo Bill Wild West variety."

Bubba Whitehead shook his black head slowly from side to side and muttered: "Naw, strice; tain't nuttin' lak dat. Dis am er tale wid two ends ter hit."

Yisa Dokes, a stumpy little negro with a droop in one eye, stood before the court with a constable forming a maittee cross on his gumbable brow.

"If you had been cropped in both ears along with that cross, Yisa," remarked the recorder, "Bubba would have had you marked like a Texas hog. You boys tell me about this Darktown scalping expedition. I'll hear from the scalpees first."

"I haint done nuttin'," stated Yisa Dokes dolefully, "cep'in' ter walk er long de street an' when I meets Bubba Whitehead he 'lowed dat hit was rite ter low down niggers lak me ter take off mer hat ter sech big niggers lak him. I nobber tuk off mer hat an' den Bubba grabbed me by de h'ar an' crossed mer head wid his knife. I felt de blood er spurtin' an' I loved dat it was kilt."

"Er nigger wot kin stan' up here an' tell sech er lie as dat ougter hab his full head cut clear off," stated Bubba Whitehead. "Jedge Briles, dis nigger Yisa Dokes meets me an' he axed me fer er chaw ob tobacco lak him. When I tells him dat I haint got no tobacco he axed dat I wuz er lyin' hippert. I don take no stunsers off no Darktown niggers, an' I tol' Yisa dat he had dat tuk lak. He drew er brickbat an' I drew er knife. He fust de brice an' I swooshed de knife, an' just becase de knife got de be' ob de brickbat Yisa gits hit an' I runs off after de perlice."

"I suppose I am to act as umpire between the barlow and the brickbat," the recorder said. "I decide in favor of the brick. We can't have Indian scalping parties in Darktown along with the other casualties. There are already too many hair-raising affairs in Crooked alley. I'll fine Bubba $25."

"Jedge Briles, I'll halter be gwine ter de stockade, but I sho' warn't in de fault."

"That is exactly why you are going to the stockade," replied the recorder, "because you can't pay the fine and are in default."

ROSENFELD WILL BE FILED. WIFE NOW WANTS ALIMONY.
Well-Known Citizen Left His Entire Estate to His Sister, Mrs. A. Rosenfeld.

The will of the late Sigmund Rosenfeld was filed and proved in common form in the ordinary's office yesterday. Mr. Rosenfeld, who was collector for the Royal Arcanum and one of the best known citizens of Atlanta, died several days ago, leaving some property, principally real estate.

Mrs. A. Rosenfeld, his sister, according to the terms of the will, is sole beneficiary. In case of her death the property goes to her children and Dr. J. E. Sommerfeld is named as executor.

Mr. Rosenfeld had been in ill health for quite a while. Since coming to this city he had made his home with his sister and her family. He had never married. The will was filed by Attorney Arthur Heyman, a warm friend of the deceased.

Blaring noises in the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh because it purifies the blood, thereby removing the cause of the disease.

Blooming Matt's Brickbat Shower.

"Jedge Briles, please git dat name ob mine down rite on yer books," pleaded a Devil's Dippertie, who was charged with cutting three men and two women with his razor and who didn't stop until the razor broke. All of the cuts were on the head and no damage was done.

"We have your name down as Blooming Matthews," stated Recorder Broyles. "Dat's wot I 'lows," replied the prisoner. "Deys calls me dat an' dey calls me Bloomer Matt, but mer rite entilments am Bloomer Marheus."

"Yes, and we haven't time to catch onto any such name," the recorder told the man from Devil's Dip. "I am inclined to telling Matt, and you can proceed to tell us why you blossomed out into a human scythe last night."

"Jedge Briles, hab yer ebbes bin out in er hall storm when de stones was as big as bin shot," asked Blooming Matt. "If you will make it turkey eggs," the recorder replied, "I am with you in the storm."

"Well, sah," continued Blooming Matt, "I wuz in er shower ob brickbats lak nite. I was walking down Hard Scabble lane when de fust t'ing I knowed de brickbats berginned ter fly. Deys drapped from obbery whers, jes lak de stars were turned ter brick y'de an' wuz upst. Den I meets up wid er hull gang ob folks an' I knowed dat dey was ter fust de bricks. So I see ter myself, Bloomer Marheus, hit am carve wid dat raxer er die. An' I carved mer way outer dere as quick as I could. Dat was all dave wuz ter de matter party in Hard Scabble lane. Jedge Briles."

"I would like to get a look at the squad which was carved," remarked the recorder.

An officer motioned with his hand, and there rose up five people with their heads in cotton and cloth.

"If the cop had just said, 'Have then the squad,' the recorder said, 'he would have given me a sort of hospital Rhode-rich Dhu apparition, which he no doubt thought was my due. Let the mutilated squad say so.'"

"I sho' carved mer way out ob Hard Scabble lane wid dat raxer," Blooming Matt said when he beheld the wounded heads rise up.

"There is nothing like carving your way to fortune," stated Recorder Broyles, "but it happens this time, Blooming Matt, that it is misfortune to the tune of $25. Get yourself a brickbat-proof umbrella the next time you go in Hard Scabble lane."

Ulla Kimball, a Young Man, Meets with Serious Accident at the Fulton Cotton Spinning Mills.
Kimball was killed by a cotton gin.

While at work about the machinery at the Fulton Cotton Spinning Mills yesterday between 12 and 1 o'clock Ulla Kimball, of No. 300 Berman avenue, was caught in a belt and hurled against the wall with such force that he was seriously and perhaps fatally injured.

Kimball must have gone too close to the belt. There was no one near enough to him to see the accident. His cry of pain was heard and he was picked up with wounds on his head which bled profusely.

Dr. Pierce was sent for and he had the young man carried to his home, where the wounds were dressed.

Kimball was resting last night, but he was not out of danger.

If concussion of the brain, of which there is great danger, does not develop he may recover.

The young man is seventeen years of age, and helps to support his mother's family.

Civil Service Commission Will Investigate Wagoner Examination.

Washington, December 12.—(Special.)—The civil service commission is setting on foot an investigation into the examination for letter carriers, held some time ago at Washington. It seems that out of a large number of persons who stood the examination—some of them graduates of the academy—the examiners certified four negroes and one white man. There is suspicion that there was some political cheating, as candidates as letters received from several of the successful ones since then seem to indicate doubt of the writers being able to stand any sort of examination.

A HARD QUESTION FOR PHILANTHROPY

What Is To Be Done with Hattie Hughes?

POLICE TAKE HER IN CHARGE
She Ran Away from a Home Where She Was Sheltered.

HAD BEEN CURED OF THE COCAINE HABIT
She Claims That She Is Desperate, and the Dark Future Blots Out All Hope.

A pale-faced, delicate looking young girl stood before the recorder yesterday afternoon to tell why she had run away from a home and from those who wanted to be her benefactors.

She was Hattie Hughes, who was picked up from one of the slums of Atlanta a physical wreck from the long use of cocaine.

The pitiful story of the young woman's life was told in The Constitution some weeks ago and those having in charge the charitable home organized by the Baptist tabernacle found the woman in a room on Decatur street. She said she wanted to lead a better life and to be reclaimed from the habit which was killing her.

Three weeks' treatment made her a different looking creature. There is a look of returning health on the cheeks and a sparkle of joy in the black-lustrous eyes. Just as she was getting well, and when she was being cared for, she became despondent and ran away. Tuesday night she was found by the police in her old haunts and was held in a detention ward at the barracks.

Mr. Boyd, who is in charge of the home for such people, said he didn't know what to do with Hattie Hughes. "It seems that she is one that cannot be reclaimed," he said despondently. "We have been kind to her, but she is incorrigible. Twice she threatened to kill me with a poker, and we had to use force. She is almost well again, and we have cured her of the cocaine habit. If we carry her back she will run away again. So we may have to give her up."

On the other hand, the woman tells a story of desperation which is not without its pathos.

"I am grateful for what they have done for me," she stated, "but after I am cured and turned out on the world what am I to do? I cannot expect to enter a family as a servant; I cannot secure employment in a store; I cannot work with factory girls. Everywhere and in every place the finger of scorn would be pointed at me and I would be run away. It was these thoughts that drove me into desperation. I want to lead a different life, but what am I to do?"

The question was put to Recorder Broyles, and he said: "I can't answer it. All I can do is to have the woman sent to the stockade if she persists in wandering about on the streets as she did before she was taken care of."

Hattie consented to return with Mr. Boyd, but she was not willing to take her after the way she had acted. The woman is still held at the police barracks, while those who wish to reclaim her are consulting over the situation.

"I'm axin' de cop' all sorts ob 'pologues," said Tom Gravel, "and I can't do more than that. I don't want his nickel now and would refuse it if he handed it to me."

"Too late, your repentance has come too late, Thomas," the recorder told him. "The wrong has been committed and can never be wiped out. Not even your sentence of thirty days in the chainage can wash the stain away. Such a thing simply boggles description. As the green of a bum violating the law by asking alms and then attempting to make a cop patis criminal."

"Too late, your repentance has come too late, Thomas," the recorder told him. "The wrong has been committed and can never be wiped out. Not even your sentence of thirty days in the chainage can wash the stain away. Such a thing simply boggles description. As the green of a bum violating the law by asking alms and then attempting to make a cop patis criminal."

EISEMAN & WEIL ON $60,000 WORTH

3 Whitehall 26 Whitehall

The First Clothing House On The Street

of dependable Clothing, Hats and Furnishings at Nos. 3 and 26 Whitehall Street. You are sure to find what you want at a great saving at one of the other of our Stores. We have purchased Mr. Stewart's stock, fixtures and good will at a sacrifice. Mr. Stewart retires from the clothing business, we retaining his salesmen. The Stewart stock must be closed out at once, as we expect to continue business at No. 26 Whitehall and need all available room for our New Spring Stock which will arrive in February. We will have to vacate our store at 3 Whitehall on account of the Viaduct, and unless we dispose of this stock before business is interfered with we will be forced to pack away these goods, or rent another store.

Prevailing Conditions Force Us to Sell Quickly.

Our Large Sales of the Past Few Days Convince Us That The Public Is Quick to Appreciate "Genuine Reductions."

So many good and sensible gifts for Men and Boys that we attempt no description. With apologies to those who could not get waited on last Saturday and Monday and the promise that we will attempt to serve all comers faithfully and promptly, as plenty extra help has been engaged, we invite you to come and investigate. Terms strictly cash. Satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.

STARTED WITH EASY UNDERTONE

Due to Weak Cables and Large Foreign Selling Orders.

RECEIPTS ALSO VERY HEAVY

Smaller Receipts Estimated for New Orleans and Houston Caused a Spurt of Heavy General Buying—Closed 7 to 12 Points Higher.

New York, December 12.—The cotton market made a long stride toward recovery of the late severe decline today. At the start weak Liverpool cables, large foreign selling orders, larger receipts than expected and liquidation, gave the market an easy undertone and forced prices off 1 to 10 points. After a slight additional decline the market quietly steadied on room profit taking. By 11 o'clock the undertone was bordering on firmness with prices back to last night's final bids. The market continued to exhibit sufficient strength to make bears suspicious of a sharp upturn. Smaller estimates than expected for tomorrow's receipts at New Orleans and Houston caused a spurt of heavy general buying and prices pushed upward until a net rise of 13 to 27 points was established. Not a few traders joined forces with the bulls after having covered over sales, while the wire houses came into possession of numerous buying orders from parties who have fought shy of the market for a long time. The near months were the strongest on the list, owing to the small stock of cotton in New York which shorts could count to make deliveries on contract and the fact that the local market is so far below a parity with other markets that cotton can be brought here only at a loss. Trading was active much of the day. At the close the market was steady with prices net 7 to 12 points higher.

DOUGLASS STOCKS SHOWED ACTIVITY

Their Gains Greater Than in Usual Market Leaders.

AFFECTED OTHER STOCKS

In the Final Hour a Raid Was Made on Tennessee Coal, Which Unsettled the Entire Market. Closed Active and Strong.

New York, December 12.—Activity in a large number of usually dormant securities was marked yesterday, with the Tennessee Coal and Iron stock leading the way. The Tennessee Coal and Iron stock, which had been quiet for some time, showed a sharp advance of 10 points, closing at 100. This gain was due to a rumor that the company had secured a large contract for the export of coal to the United States. The Tennessee Coal and Iron stock's gain was reflected in the gains of other stocks, particularly in the coal and iron industry. The market was active and strong, with many stocks showing gains. The Tennessee Coal and Iron stock's gain was the most significant, and it was the catalyst for the market's activity. The market was closed active and strong.

TOLD WHERE HE GOT BRANDY

Youth Has Saloon Man Bound Over for Selling to Him.

HE IS FINED HIMSELF

Interesting Case Growing Out of Two Officers Finding Earle Stanford Drunk on the Streets.

When Earle Stanford, a white youth, stood before the recorder yesterday afternoon to tell about his having been drunk on the street, he was facing the saloon man who sold him the liquor.

Stanford is seventeen years of age, and he had told the officers that Michael Brady, of J. D. Brady & Brother, who run a saloon on Mitchell street, had sold him two drinks of peach brandy.

Officers Wells and Harris stated to the recorder that they had found the youth on the streets too drunk to take care of himself.

Stanford stated that he had gone into Brady's saloon with another young man and they drank peach brandy twice, for which he paid. One time Michael Brady served the drinks.

Brady made a statement in which he said he believed Stanford to be twenty-one years of age, as the youth had given that as his age on another occasion, and his uncle had said he was of age.

Another saloon man testified that he had heard Stanford tell people from whom he bought beer that he was over twenty-one years of age, but this had not been communicated to Brady that witness knew of.

Recorder Broyles decided to bind Brady over to the state courts so that a jury could pass on the case.

The charge against Brady is selling liquor to a minor and the bond, which was readily given, was fixed at $300.

"Now," said the recorder, "I dismiss the case against Stanford for being drunk, as the law says that when a minor tells from whom he bought the whiskey he can go free; but I will enter another case against him for going into saloons and will fine him $25. The young man has acted very badly himself."

MUST BURY DECAYED FRUIT

Law Governing Such Matters Is Unusually Strict.

COUNTY POLICE ARE ALERT

Prepared To Immediately Arrest Anyone Guilty of Not Burying Decaying Vegetables.

A special effort will be made by the county police force to prevent the scattering of decayed fruit and vegetables in Fulton county. There is a law which requires that all decayed animal and vegetable matter shall be buried.

Some time ago, it seems, several cartloads of decayed cabbages were taken out to the river and dumped. Complaint was made by the residents of the neighborhood and the parties responsible were notified that they would be prosecuted for a similar offense.

A person convicted of this offense may be punished as for a misdemeanor, and the judge has the authority to order a fine of $100 and a sentence of twelve months in the county chain gang and six months in jail.

Chief A. C. Turner, of the county force of inspectors of roads and bridges, has recently to warn several companies that they must bury all decayed vegetables they handle and he stated yesterday that the first one to break the law would be taken in hand immediately.

The following is the text of the law concerning this particular matter:

It shall be the duty of the last owner of any state or decayed animal matter within this state, but situated within the corporate limits of the towns and cities of this state, to bury or destroy the same as deep as to prevent any stench, within three hours after notice that such matter has become offensive to the smell or dangerous to health.

The penalty for such offense is contained in section 450 of the code. The law is not in force "except in those counties in which there is no or may hereafter be a city of 50,000 inhabitants."

TRAGEDY DEATHS ARE REPORTED

Three White Men Killed Between American and Savannah.

The Times-Recorder learns tonight of three tragic deaths today at points on the Seaboard Air Line railway between this city and Savannah, though the names of the men killed are obtainable.

Near Deeto, a section foreman accidentally killed himself while handling a gun. At another point, an employee working a mule-drawn car was crushed to death by a heavy hammer, while at still another point a man fell beneath the wheels while endeavoring to board a fast moving passenger train. All the killed were white men.

DR. EMIL G. HIRSCH WILL LECTURE HERE TONIGHT

DR. EMIL G. HIRSCH, rabbi of the Sinai congregation of Chicago, editor of the Reform Advocate, a member of the faculty of the Chicago university, will speak before the Atlanta Lecture Association at the Grand opera house tonight.

Dr. Hirsch is one of the foremost lecturers and scholars of America and his lecture tonight is one of considerable interest. His subject will be "Mohammed and Islam."

Wherever Dr. Hirsch speaks he is listened to by great crowds and hundreds are turned away from his church every Sunday. His lecture tonight will be one of the most brilliant in the course of the Atlanta Lecture Association.
